Comment:	How is it that school administrators are allowed to provide false narratives, omit evidence, force statements by employees although video proof shows otherwise & can then try to have children they are supposed to nurture, guide, teach, & provide structure to blatantly lie? How can principal Egan & VP Garibay get away with having my kids miss over 60 days of school with unfounded false allegations? When if the allegations were remotely true the 2 students who started the altercation, who did everything they blamed my kids for are still happily attending the school with no reprimand. Causing severe emotional & mental distress on top of halting my childrens "young black women" education by not providing any type of support. If a child jerks away from someone who holds power, while upset & in the heat of the moment, why wasn't a conversation had? A conversation stating expectations, which would of provided guidance instead of using abuse of power, & lieing blatantly to have my kids removed. Destroying their confidence in the education system, & their respect for school site administrators. This is not ok, & should not be taken lightly when childrens livelihoods & reputations by school records are at stake. 100% there needs to be some type of accountability of Egan & Garibay for the hell they've put my children through, all because they felt my kids were "insubordinate or not listening to them after my kids were hunted, aporoached, & attacked during lunch. I cannot let thid go without some type of awareness & accountability. God knows how many children have parents who don't fight & don't have proof nor the means or mental space to advocate for their children? I'm sure mostly children of color. Something needs to be done.
